WEDNESDAY, DEC. 9, 1857.

THE LOUISVILLE AND NASHVILLE RAILROAD. The annual report of the President and Directors of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad for the year ending October, 1857, has just been published. It is a document of much interest to the people of this city and Southern Kentucky. The welfare of Louisville, her commercial prosperity, and the appreciation of the value of her real estate are now mainly dependent upon the speedy completion of this enterprise. She can no longer afford to look only to river transportation for her Southern commercial connec tions, and this road is the connecting link which will pour into her lap a vast trade and commerce that she cannot expect to retain or to increase without a railroad connection with the railroad systems of the Southern States. The citizens of Louisville are directly and greatly interested in this undertaking and will hail with gratification every added evidence of its progress.

The report is a plain business document, setting forth the progress of the work, the expenditures already made, the estimated cost of the work yet to be done, and a statement of the means of the company available for this purpose. The main road is completed and in running order to Rolling Fork, thirty-one miles from this city. The bridge across Rolling Fork, composed of two spans of two hundred feet each, is finished, and the track-laying has advanced southward from that point about one mile, and will soon be finished to within seven miles of Elizabethtown. If no unexpected obstruction to the progress of the work is presented, it is believed that by April next the grade over Muldrough's hill will be ready for the track, and that, by midsummer or autumn, the grading will be completed to a point two and a half miles south of Green river or about seventy-five miles from Louisville. The bridge across Green river will be one thousand feet long and thirty feet high. As to the prospects for the completion of the road in running order to that point, the President, in his report, says:

point, the President, in his report, says:

From the point to which the track will reach this fall to a point two and a half miles south of Green river is about forty miles. The cost to iron that part of the road will necessarily depend on the cost of iron delivered at Louisville. It is believed that contracts might now be made for the best American rail at sixty-seven dollars per ton. Assume that as the price of iron, it will cost about three hundred thousand dollars to beliast the road frem the junction to the top of Muldrough's hill, to buy the iron chairs, spikes, and cross-tee, and lay the iron on track for the forty miles. This sum of three hundred thousand dollars must be created in addition to the available means now at the command of the company, if it is desired to press the entire grade, masonry, and bridging to completion on the whole line within the next two years. It is the opinion of the board, and to them it seems a question of little doubt, that true policy requires that the entire grade should be completed at the earliest possible day if adequate means were provided. But with the present means the two objects—to cross Green river with the track, and to complete the entire grade—cannot be done. The means are adequate to either. If the additional sum of three hundred thousand dollars cannot be raised, or the iron procured on the credit of the company, or otherwise, no time ought to be lost in determining which of the two purposes shall be accomplished. By comparing the cost of the entire grade with the means of the company, it is shown that the present means are adequate to the completion of the grade, but to cross Green river with track is too important to the business of the road to be overlooked.

If the road can be made complete for business across Green river, and the State of Tennessee shall extend its usual aid to iron that part within that State, 45 miles, there will be 190 miles of road in track for business, which leaves only 65 to provide with iron.

There should be no hesitation nor

There should be no hesitation nor delay in com pleting the track as far Southward from Louisville as can be done with the present means of the company, and, when the vast interests to be subserve completing the entire road within two years are taken into consideration, little doubt should be entertained that the additional sum of $300,000 required for this purpose will be raised without much difficulty. We agree with the president in his opinion that when the track is completed and in running order from Louisville to a point two and a half miles south of Green river, and, from Nashville thirty miles out, a market may be found at home for enough of the company's bonds to complete the whole en-

The report of the President alludes to the aid received from the citizens of Louisville in terms of grateful acknowledgement. He adds:

It is hoped an example so worthy of imitation will be followed by citizens of the counties along the line. If it shall so turn out, and the company shall be zo fortunate as to convert their securities into cash, it may be relied on with confidence, that the year 1859 will well nigh present the road in a completed state. That the people along the line should become the holders of these bonds is sminently proper. By such sale and purchase you secure for the

He concludes the report with a statement of the prospects of the company for the construction of the Memphis branch, contemplated by the charter, and mperatively demanded by the requirements of our This is an important feature of the Louisville and Nashville road. The speedy construction of the main stem to a point where a railroad connec tion between Louisville and Memphis may be easily constructed is a consummation devoutly to be wished. Gov. Helm says of this Memphis branch:

The central route, terminating on the main line, plete.

The Franklin route, terminating on the main line, twenty miles south of Bowling Green, is thirty-four and a half miles in length, and estimated to cost, when complete, the least expense, lengthen the distance from the State line to Bowling Green.

The above estimates are very full, and it is believed eith er route may be fitted for business for $100,000 less that the estimate.

The selection of the one or the other of these routes will most likely be determined by the amount of available subscriptions offered. The county of Logan made a bond subscription of $800,000, on condition Russellville was a point, No formal report has been made of the amount of private stock subscribed, but informal accounts place it above $100,000. These two sums combined will be sufficient to grade the road. This short link of road, connecting Memphis and Louisville, when graded, cannot fail to secure credit, or be sufficient to invite means sufficient to iron and equip it.

RIVER AND STEAMBOAT MATTERS.

The denizens of Water street are entertaining aporehensions of a flood. And well they may be. The falls are navigable for the largest boats, the river is rising very fast from Pittsburg down, with all its tributaries pouring out, and it was again raining last night. We believe the only thing that can prevent a freshet is cold weather.

There were very few steamboat arrivals yesterday, and the heavy fogs which have prevailed have been a serious drawback to navigation. All the poats are detained by them.

The R. J. Ward,-We feel satisfied that the mere nnouncement of the departure of this magnificent steamer this evening will be sufficient to ensure her a full compliment of passengers. We understand that a delightful company have secured rooms on her. There is no luxury obtainable on shore which is not afforded on the Ward. She leaves from Strader's wharf.

The Southerner .- In consequence of the fog, Capa Triplett did not venture over the falls last evening with the Southerner. She will leave positively at 10 o'clock this morning from the city wharf. Mr. J. B. Archer, a model clerk, will be found at the desk to register names.

The Bracelet will leave for Green river to-day. The Superior, Capt. Summons, is the mailboat for Cincinnati to-day.

The Dove will leave for the Kentucky river at 3 o'clock this evening.

Hon. Thos. F. Marshall at ODD Fellows HALL .- As we predicted, Mr. Marshall's Discourse on Italy last night was a gem. It thrilled and entranced all hearts. For so unstudied an effort, it was really one of the most high-wrought and felicitous to which we have ever listened. The soul of the orator seemed kindled to a divine enthusiasm by his beautiful theme.

The remaining Discourses of the series, as we ve already stat in our col ed in one of the Halls of the Masonic Temple.

THE HOG MARKET .- The market was decidedly firmer, if we may judge by the transactions which were made. We are at liberty to quote only one, which was 180 head, averaging 280 to 290 lbs, at $5 50 net. Between 1,500 and 2,000 head more were sold. The market price may now be considered $5 25 for good hogs. In the product the only important sale we hear of was 4,000 hams from the block at 7c, ninety days, interest added.

Congress .- In the Senate yesterday, after the reading of the President's message, Mr. Douglass expressed his approval of that document, save the Kansas question. The subject caused an animated debate, which will be found in our telegraph column. The House was engaged in a discussion about the public printer.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.

The President, referring to the financial crisis, concludes thus: "But this I say after long reflection, if experience shall prove it to be impossible to enjoy the facilities which well regulated banks might afford, without, at the same time, suffering the calamities which the excess of the banks have hitherto inflicted upon the country, it would then be the lesser evil to deprive them altogether of the power to issue a paper currency, and to confine them to the functions of banks of deposit or discount."

In referring to public lands, he says: They should be disposed of so as to furnish homes for a hardy and independent race—honest, industrious citizens desirous to cultivate the soil.

To squander away the public domain upon objects hardy and independent race—honest, industrious citizens desirous to cultivate the soil.

To squander away the public domain upon objects of questionable constitutionality is a violation of the most important trust committed to any people. He deprecates the speculation in public lands, and says that the public surveys ought only to keep pace with the tide of emigration. If Congress should hereafter grant alternate sections to States or companies, other sections should be retained, subject to actual settlers, at moderate prices. He says that making presents to Indians has been found to be ineffectual, and recommends the policy of colonizing them in suitable localities and imparting to them the rudiments of education and habits of industry.

He says that the late financial revulsion has not been without a good effect, should it cause a return of the practice of wise and judicious economy in public and private expenditures.

The President takes strong grounds against the practice whereby the two houses of Congress defer the passage of their most important bills until nearly the last moment of the session, and expresses his determination to approve no bill unless time shall be afforded him for its examination, as required by the constitution. He recommends that Congress agree to present no bill for his approval during the two last days of each session.

Tuesday's Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.

Senate.—Mr. Douglas expressed himself favorable to all the views contained in the President's message, except those relative to Kansas and the Lecompton convention. At an early day he would express his views and give the reasons why he believed the people of Kansas had not been left as their organic law declared, perfectly free from form, to regulate their institutions in their own way.

Mr. Gwin offered a substitute that all printing be executed by the printer to the Senate at the last session.

Mr. Seward was glad to hear the supporters of the President explain his position, for it seemed to him that the message was very lame and impotent in its arguments on Kansas, and that something more would be necessary to satisfy the public mind than was contained in the document itself. He trusted that the debate on this point would not be long delayed, for before we are aware of it there might be civil war in Kansas.

After reviewing other parts of the message, he might be civil war in Kansas.

After reviewing other parts of the message, he said he hoped it would be understood that on Utah affairs Congress was substantially unanimous, and that they would be assured that the government of the United States would not suffer its fame to be tarnished, its power insulted, and the lives of its citizens destroyed by an enemy, entrenched though it be in the Rocky Mountains, and under the forms of the constitution of the United States.

Mr. Mason was free to declare that all information for the last six months relative to Kansas affairs had come from questionable sources. If he understood for the last six months relative to Kansas analys had came from questionable sources. If he understood the Presidents position, and he thought he did, it was impregnable.

Mr. Trumbull denied that the Legislature of Kansas had authority to initiate the Convention. It was, according to a speech once delivered by Mr. Buchanan himself in the Senate, an act of usurpathology. tion. Congress has repeatedly refused to authorize the people of Kansas to form a State constitution. Much has been said about popular sovereignty, but this now merely amounts, a cording to the great expositor of the party, to giving the free white people of Kansas the right to determine the condition of a few negroes, while the are precluded from regulating their own institutions in their own way.

Mr. Brown said there seemed to be great anxiety to enter into discussion, and especially to find fault.

to enter into discussion, and especially to find fault. They had heard the message imperfectly read by the clerk, and they could not properly understand it. He asked the Senators to pause and sleep upon the document before indulging in debate which would go before the country over the telegraph wires, penetrating even Kansas, and giving a tone to public opinion on premises not yet perfectly understood. He asked Senators to reflect before taking their positions and uttering sentiments under cir-cumstances to which he had referred in his motion.

House.—Mr. Clemens obtained permission to make a personal explanation. He read a letter from his colleague, Mr. Faulkner, asking him to state the facts upon which he, in Democratic caucus, based his conclusions with reference to the statements impeaching Mr. Wendell's character. Mr. Clemens is reply agreed to Mr. Faulkner's suggestion to submit (to Mr. Wendell, in order to give him an opportunity for vindication), a written statement, of which he read a duplicate, describing the circumstances under which he was on last Saturday approached by a person who said he was interested in procuring the office of printer for Mr. Wendell, and that a pecuniary consideration could be secured for Mr. Clemens's mother in one of two contingencies, viz: 1st, That he should cast his vote for Wendell; or, 2d, abstain from voting at all. House .- Mr. Clemens obtained permission to make abstain from voting at all.

Mr. Clemens, in reply to this, pointed the man to an act of Congress providing pains and penalties for such corrupt approaches, and told him that he had mistaken his man.

Mr. Wendell, in his reply, selemnly protested against such a charge, based on a nameless author, and says if the charges were properly preferred he would promptly refute them. He never had, directly or indirectly, employed any person or agent to procure votes for him.

procure votes for him.

Mr. Clemens, having finished reading the correspondence, said he never had seen Mr. Wendell to his knowledge, and had no purpose to accomplish other than the faithful discharge of public duty.

He was constrained from exposing the name of the scoundrel who approached him on account of the man's family, who should not be confounded with his guilt. He accepted the statement of Mr. Wendell so far as the denial of all complicity or knowledge of such a proposition was concerned.

Mr. Smith, of Virginia, offered a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to examine into the subject of public printing. The election of printer is to be postponed until this report shall be made.

He said it was believed that an enormous corruption was connected with this subject, and hence the necessity of an investigation. The profits accruing were probably $800,000, and the printer who might ce elected to-day could get a quarter million dollars for his contract.

Mr. Clingman moved to elect a printer first and investigate afterwards.

Mr. Houston, who had moved to proceed to the election of a printer, expressed his willingness to agree to the method just proposed.

Mr. Smith, of Tennessee, said: "I am a fast friend of Mr. Wendell's, and I state on his authority that he abides the action of the caucus, and supports the nominee."

Mr. Keith said that he did not go into the caucus, out he would vote for the nominee because that gentleman suited him.

The debate was here interrupted by the reception of the President's message.

After the document was read, Mr. Bocock appealed to the House to complete its organization by the election of a public printer, after this had been done, he would willingly join with other members in ferreting out the extravarance and corruptors which is he would willingty join with other members in ferreting out the extravagance and corruption which is charged to exist in this department.

Mr. Grover advised the House to commence a reform in the government printing department by curtailing the enormous expenditures which had created our government into a rival with all the book establishments in the country. Books were sent out by Congressional authority which were really not worth the paper on which they were printed. Without concluding the subject the House adjourned.

Cook's command was 150 miles west of Fort Laramie, November 3d. So far the traveling was pleasant and easy, but now the weather was growing colder, provisions getting scarce, provender giving out and apparently great hardships are before us. Notwithstanding threats from Salt Lake City, the entire army will proceed as rapidly as the elements and the supply of food will permit, to winter quarters marked out by Col. Johnson on Henry's Foik, Green river. It is rumored that the intention of Brigham Young is to right the troops this winter, as affording the best chance for equal conflict, and then, before reinforcements can be sent in the spring, to destroy all his possessions in Utah and proceed to some other country.

Mr. Stewart, of Michigan, coincided in Douglas's views respecting the Lecompton convention. At an early day he would speak on the subject, and insit to the extent of his ability that the people of Kansas should be treated like all others, and have the earliest opportunity to regulate such institutions as they wish to live under.

Mr. Davis concurred in the views of the President concurring the Kansas question, and should await the promised remarks of Douglas before he expressed his own views.

Mr. Bigler gave notice that he should defend the position assumed by the President to the best of his ability and respond to Mr. Douglas.

Mr. Douglass accepted Mr. Gwin's substitute.

Mr. Hale spoke in opposition to the constitution framed by the Lecompton convention, arguing that it would perpetuate slavery in Kansas whether the people of Kansas accepted Mr. Gwin's substitute.

Things have quieted down somewhat at the State

Senatorial honors.

The race for Senator seems to overreach all other enterprises, and the Democratic politicians and members, all of whom have their favorites, have an eye to the result in all their movements.

Mr. Muir's numerous legal friends here are highly pleased with his nomination for the vacant Judgeship in your district, and regard his election as a foregone conclusion. I am informed that the Governor labors under embarrassment in reference to the duty of making an order for the election. As Judge Bullock's resignation does not take effect until January, it would be informal to issue the proclamation for an election before the vacancy actually exists. His Excellency will call upon the Legislature to pass a special act which will have the effect to avert the difficulty, and the election will doubtless be ordered for Saturday, the 2d of January. In the meantime the State will have the valuable services of Mr. Muir in the Legislature.

Very little has been attempted yet, of course, in either house in the way of legislation. The Governor's message was read this morning. The document, which is before you, sustains the reputation for statesmanship of our popular Governor.

Senator Walker asked and obtained leave to present a bill in effect to repeal the act establishing the State Normal School at Lexington, which was referred to a special committee.

Two or three petitions of local significance were presented in the Hovse. Both bodies adjourned for the day at 12 o'clock.

Col. Duncan, of your city, having been detained at home, appeared in his seat yesterday.

Kansus—Breakers Ahead—The President and Governor Walker and Senator Douglas—The Message, &c.

The subject of Kansasat present agitates the politicians in Washington, and there can be no doubt that it will distract the Congressional proceedings.

Senator Douglas, it is now well known, stands on the same platform with Governor Walker—committed to the opposition of the proceedings of the Kansas constitutional convention, and in favor of submitting a constitution itself to the inhabitants of Kansas for their approval; instead of one clause merely, in order that, by the latter, they may determine whether slavery shall or shall not be incorporated in the charter as one of their "Comestic Institutions."

ated in the charter as one of their "domestic institutions."

It is claimed by Governor Walker and Senator Douglas that full scope should be given to the people; and in this movement they do not stand "solitary and slone." There are Democrats in both Houses who will follow the lead of the "Little Giant," but as to the extent of the defection time alone will conclusively show.

It is said, and I believe with truth, that he will introduce a bill, early in the session, authorizing the inhabitants of Kansas to call a convention for the purpose of framing a constitution, as in the cases of Oregon and Minnesota. This will temporarily, as least, throw the firebrand out of Congress, and may tend to the settlement of the questions which have so intensely agitated the country ever since Kansas was erocted into a Territorial government.

As far as can be ascertained there is but little, if any, diversity of opinion among Southern members; they support the proceedings of the constitutional convention. For the sake of harmony they may, however, modify their tactics; and it is predicted, even at this early period, that they will all harmoniously move on to the consummation of the business of the session. But we shall see.

Members of Congress continue to arrive from all sections of the confederacy, and all are preparing for the political events soon to be presented for their consideration.

Much anxiety is naturally manifested concerning the contents of the President's message, for, with

Much anxiety is naturally manifested concerning the contents of the President's message, for, with the promulgation of the views therein contained, there will be a better understanding of the positions which his political friends respectively occupy.

There are propositions or plans for the fitting up of two theaters. Since the burning of the National, strangers and citizens have been deprived cf dramatic luxuries. The time has never been that one such establishment could be well supported; but persons who have a surplus of money are always at liberty to waste it in a manner most in accordance with their fancy.

The Thirst and Race after Office—Excutement—The Caucus—The Printing, etc.

In a former letter you were advised of the scrubrace for the sweepstakes of office, and of the indecent race for the sweepstakes of office, and of the indecent clamor for the spoils. Somehow, as soon as not a few persons come hither from abroad, they show signs of ravenous appetites to feast from Uncle Sam's crib; and, therefore, with the desperation of starving men, they enter at once upon the work of satisfying the gnawings at their vitals. But, prob-ably, they are hungry before they visit Washington; and, like the crows (who do not perfume themselves with attar of rose or frangipanni), smell the carcass afar off!

For weeks and days have the candidates for office under the House of Representatives been at work in order to "cut and dry" things for the Democratic members assembled in caucus. Every member went into the "close" meeting last night, pledged to particular persons on the first voting trial. As all the candidates were extravagantly hopeful (together with the hundreds of their friends in expectation of good situations under them), and as the city politicians generally were intensely exercised regarding the movements of the caucus-ites, dense crowds at an early hour repaired to the aisles and passages leading to the Hall of Representatives, where the secret meeting was held. Every time a member emerged to dart to the private rooms for a drink—perhaps of water—he was seized by some intensely interested "out-sider," and compelled to divulge the proceedings. In this way the news and progress in the proceedings were ascertained. The nominations for all the offices were made by nine o'clock, or within two hours, but the Democracy stumbled at the printer. Three prominent candidates in the field: Wendall, the present incumbent; Steadman, of Ohio; and Banks, of Virginia. The last named obtained the fire-eating votes, forty-five of them, and the other two gentleman ran nearly "neck and neck," thirty-three against thirty-two. A stiff and excited debate ensued, the integrity of one or more For weeks and days have the candidates for office and the other two gentleman ran hearly "neck and neck," thirty-three against thirty-two. A stiff and excited debate ensued, the integrity of one or more of the candidates questioned; and so to give time for investigation, the further proceedings in the matter of printer were postponed till Monday night.

The nominees: James L. Orr, of South Carolina, calls himself a "Democrat"—a name to which his colleagues are not ardently attached, and is not so straight-laced as they are in the State Rights school; in other words, he is not a Disunionist per se. He has the proper qualifications for Speaker, and, all things considered, will creditably occupy the Chair. James C. Allen, of Illinois, an ex-member of Congress, worked extremely hard for the nomination as Clerk of the House. From the candidates presented the caucus made the best selection.

Michael W. Cluskey, of Georgia, a young man—perhaps not more than twenty-five—for Postmaster. He distanced several old foxes who had formerly enjoyed profitable situations under the House.

M. B. Hackney, of Virginia, was formerly proprietor of a hotel, and by his generosity and bad debts was smashed in his business as a "publican."

It should here be stated that during the caucus proceedings such members as were seized with colic could find medicine in some of the committee rooms.

The Doorkeeper, Postmaster, and Clerk have the dispensation of the patronage; at least $300,000 worth of it. It may therefore be reasonably concluded that the seekers will be exceedingly many. The influence of members of Congress especially will be brought to bear to direct the distribution of the favors. An officer, under these circumstances, has a heavy load to carry; he has an opportunity to practice the Christian merit of "patience;" but it is not easy to comply with every promise.

Office-getting is the great work just now; nothing else occupies at this time so much of the public attention.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, DEC. 9, 1857.

VIRGINIA .- Mr. J. C. Underwood, a citizen and landholder of Virginia, who was expelled from his residence and from the State, during the Presidential canvass, for attending the Republican National Convention as a delegate, has never since been permitted to resume the occupation of his own home, but in his absence has been tried and convicted, by a jury of Clark county, of having said that the master has not the right of property in his slave. For this offense the county court has fined him $300. Meantime, the colonization of Virginia, with settlers from the free States and from foreign countries, proceeds steadily. The Yankees at Ceredo are quietly building a city, and have already issued the first numbers of a newspaper, called the Crescent. Then, too, the Philadelphia concern has commenced operations in Bath county, and the following paragraph from the Weston (Va.) Herald chronicles another phase of the general movement:

There arrived here last week two or three families of Swedes. They bring with them, we are informed, a large amount of specie, and design purchasing land in this or some of the adjoining counties and making Northwestern Virginia their permanent home. In no section of the country are there greater inducements held out to emigrants than in our own.

The Parkersburg Courier, Wheeling Intelligencer, and other Virginia papers express their gratification at these indications, and the Intelligencer particu-

At the rate at which emigration is setting into the counties below, we shall soon be able to command our own terms at Richmond, and abolish all such despotic provisions as those which fine a man $300 for daring to say, above his breath, that his soul is his own.

Suicides .- Mr. Harding Johnson, a retired merchant of Cincinnati, committed suicide on Monday evening by drowning himself, caused by pecuniary distress. Mr. Johnson some years since became security for a friend, and he was reduced to poverty by having to meet his demand. In addition to this, his house was burned, He left a large family. Mr. Wm. Wetmore, a merchant of New York, committed suicide on Saturday morning by cutting his throat with a razor.

THE LEMMON SLAVE CASE .- The Supreme Court of New York has reaffirmed the previous decision in the Lemmon slave case, declaring the slaves entitled to their liberty, and denying the right of transit to the owners of that species of property. Judge Roosevelt dissented. The case now goes to the Court of Appeals-thence probably to the Supreme Court of the United States.

The following we take from the Paris letter in the New York Commercial:

The journals have all published lately the account of the expulsion M. Froebel, an American citizen, from Frankfort-on-the-Maine, by the police of that city, as a dangerous political refugee. This I believe is true; but they added that the American Consul at that city had demanded his passports in consequence, which is not true. The American consular accept at that point went to inquire of the power of th consequence, which is not true. The American consular agent at that point went to inquire of the police the reason for the expulsion of M. Froebel, and, when he learned them, withdrew. Of the merits of this difficulty I know nothing.

I believe I have already mentioned to you the extraordinary trial lately in progress in the department of Aine, in France, in which fourteen prisoners were accused of five murders and fifty-nine robberies with violence and otherwise. This was in fact a band of brigands who managed to exist in a peaceable neighborhood simply by the fear their names inspired, until their depredations became so bold that the local authorities were compelled to call into requisition extraordinary means for their arrest. They were nearly all relatives, father, brothers, sisters, sons-in-law, and brothers-in-law. brothers, sisters, sons-in-law, and brothers-in-law. An old man, the leading spirit of the band, and three of the most terrible of the others, were condemned at the conclusion of the trial, two days ago, to the guillotine, while a son was condemned to imprisonment for life, and several of the others to long terms of imprisonment. Lemaitre, one of the band, avowed in court that being the strongest he was always charged with the killing.

SINGULAR STORY.—A young girl, 17 years of age, of a good family, and, as far as we can learn, of irreproachable character, is reputed as the subject of the following adventures. She lives with her pathe following adventures. She lives with her parents in the upper part of the city, and early on last Saturday evening rode down in a city railroad car to reach a bookstore where she wished to make a purchase. Before she alighted from the car, she was left alone with an individual in male costume, who addressed some remarks to her, which the girl, who is said to be hard of hearing, understood to be, who addressed some remarks to her, which the girl, who is said to be hard of hearing, understood to be. "Will you get out and walk with me?" Frightened at this address, she shrunk from her persecutor, who remarked, "I will have you yet." She related the circumstance on her return, and her elder sister at once placed a veto upon her leaving home again after dark. On Monday morning she left home as usual for school, but had not proceeded far before the same individual accosted her; she attempted to run, when he seized hold of her, and, to prevent her from giving an alarm, placed a cloth over her face. She supposes that this was wet with chloroform, as she remembers no more until she came to herself in a house in Baxter street. A new domestic, ignorant of the character of the house, had been hired at this place on the same day, with whom the girl made friends, and whose bed she shared on Monday and Tuesday nights. Meantime she had been missed and a reward of fifty dollars was offered for information leading to her recovery. The domestic saw the advertisement, teok the girl's rings to her friends as proof of her identity, and thus obtained her release. She had not been maltreated except in being threatened and restrained of her liberty. If this story be correct, it shows the necessity of a more adequate protection for innocent school girls than has heretofore been deemed requisite. In this connection, however, we may be permitted to say that we have witnessed a levity of conduct on the part of young girls in the cars and other public places, which cannot be too strongly condemned. It is generally the result of mere thoughtlessness—an overflow of exuberance of spirits—but it is often taken by the depraved of the other sex as an ad-It is generally the result of mere thoughtlessness—an overflow of exuberance of spirits—but it is often taken by the depraved of the other sex as an advance toward an improper intimacy.

ECLIPSES.—In the year 1858 there will be four eclipses—two of the sun and two of the meon:

1st. A partial eclipse of the moon, February 27th, only partly visible in the United States. The moon will rise partly eclipsed, which will take place generally after the time of the greatest phase. Its magnitude will be 0.333 of moon diameter, on the southern limb.

3d. A partial eclipse of the moon, August 24th. The magnitude of the eclipse will be 0.470 of moon diameter, on the northern limb. At some places the first contact with the Penumbra will not be visible; but to most places in the United States the whole.

Whether he will take a seat on the bench remains to be seen. The other judges have held a meeting upon the subject, and it is supposed Mr. Finn will be bought off.

Serious Error .- The Charlottesville Jeffersonian learns that, by a miscalculation of the auditor, there will be a deficit in the State Treasury of $400,000. In estimating the wants of the State, he omitted $200,000 for the James river and Kanawha Company, which the State is guaranteed to pay, and also omitted to make provision for the sinking fund. He estimated the amount on hand at the end of the present year to be $500,000, when it is only $37,000. Col. Fremont is now in Boston. The Post says he has been made a knight of the "Sons of Malta."

The Colonel has been so long on the plains that we supposed he had long ago attained that distinction. He certainly possesses all the qualifications for it in an eminent degree.

A countryman took his seat at a hotel table opposite to a gentleman who was indulging in a bottle of wine. Supposing the wine to be common property, our unsophisticated country friend helped himself to it with the other gentleman's glass. "That's cool," exclaimed the owner of the wine indignantly. "Yes," said the other, solemnly, "I should think there was ice in it."

An Execution in Hartford Two Hundred Years Ago. From the Diary of John Hull, Treasurer and Mintmaster of Massachusetts, recently published by the American Antiquarian Society, we take the following item: "1757, 28d of 2d (i.e. April 23d). We received letters from Hartford, and understand that the work of reconciliation (in the Church) went very slowly forward. We also heard that at a town called Farmington, near Hartford, an Indian was so bold as to kill an English woman great with child, and Farmington, near Hartford, an Indian was so bold as to kill an English woman great with child, and likewise her maid, and also sorely wounded a little child—all within their house—and then fired the house, which also fired some other houses or barns. The Indians being apprehended, delivered up the murderer, who was brought to Hartford, and (after he had his right hand cut off) was, with an axe, knocked at the head by the executioner."

Lola Minez to be Married .- The Philadelphia Bulletin assounces the approaching marriage of Lola Montez. The happy man on this occasion is said to be a foreign gentleman of rank and fortune. Lola is about going back to Europe.

We learn by a special morseotype to the Philadelphia Ledger, that Professor Morse, the inventor of the Morseograph, has retired from the direction of the Transatlantic Morseographic Company. The morseotype says that "the motives for the step have not transpired."

The Fever at Lisbon.—The telegraph from Lisbon is full of dismal news as to the yellow fever, which had spread beyond the capital. The last reports of the fever show 223 new cases, 80 deaths, and 116 cures, in 24 hours, up to 10 P. M. on the 7th. The weather does not appear to have continued sufficiently cool to have any beneficial effect upon the epidemic, which continued to suspend all but absolutely unavoidable commercial operations.

According to a letter from Madame Ida Pfeiffer.

According to a letter from Madame Ida Pfeiffer, dated Tana-nariva (Madagascar), June 23d, the well known traveler was very happy there, and highly content with her reception. On the day previous to her writing, she had been summoned to court to play on the piano, which she had done with so much success that the Queen sent her a quantity of fowl and eggs as a mark of her satisfaction.

LOEFFNER'S TRIAL .- The Cincinnati papers have been occupied for a week past with reports of the trial of Loeffner, who stands charged with murdering his wife and Mr. Horton, his employer. The Times contains the fullest report, which is to be issued in pamphlet form. The plea set up by the defense is insanity. The Times makes the following comments on the testimony:

Competent and reliable witnesses have testified Competent and reliable witnesses have testined that they knew Loeffner as a boy in Germany, and that his conduct there was very singular. His mother believed in witcheraft, and so did her son. Since Loeffner's residence in this city he seems to have been constantly troubled with witches, and to the few persons with whom he would converse confidentially this was already his extire which for the confidential that was already his extire which for the confidential was already by the confidential that we already his extire which for the confidential that we already his extire which the confidential that we already his confidential that we have already that the confidential that we have already that the confidential that we have already that the confidential that the co the few persons with whom he would converse conridentially, this was almost his entire subject of conversation. He was firmly impressed with the idea that his wife was a witch, that Mr. Horton, who formerly employed him, was In league with the devil, and combined with his wife to torment him and destroy his peace. Sleep or awake he saw them in various forms crossing his path, and constantly fancied they were attempting to take his life.
Under these circumstances, we can imagine the torture of the unfortunate woman who became his wife and victim. Suspecting her soon after their wife and victim. Suspecting her soon after their marriage of being a witch, he looked upon her with suspicion. Day and night it was the burden of his conversation. He imagined her changing her form, conversation. He imagined her changing her form, flying away on a broomstick, or attempting to take his life by strangulation while he slept, or by poison when awake. He gathered the earth, where her foot had left an impress, and taking it to a friend, begged him to dry it in his chimney corner, and thus put an end to her career and his sufferings; he consulted books on witch-craft, for the same purpose, and purchased advice and protection from what are known as "witch doctors." It is also in evidence, that awakening one night, he imagined his wife was attempting to choke him with a thread, and roughly seizing her in her sleep, threw her headlong out of the bed, for which act he was arrested by the police and imprisoned.

SAY NOTHING ABOUT THE BRIDGES.—John Owens, the comedian, had been to Paris, and, after a swift and agreeable passage across the Atlantic, arrived at the pier of the Collins line of steamers, in the North river, at New York. As he was leaning on the taffrail, like Juliet in the balcony scene, "his cheek upon his hand," and felicitating himself that he had reached his native land once more in safety, one of those amiable gentlemen who signalize themselves by poking whips in the faces of travelers by way of catching their eyes and securing the privilege of smashing their luggage, clambered over the rail, and, giving our friend a gentle slap on the back, said:

said:
"Have a carriage, bub?"

John, being knecked quite out of his reverse and nearly out or all the breath in his body by this courteous salutation, stood for a moment speechless; and the coachee, scanning his costume and the cut of his wiskers, evidently began to think he was a Frenchman. Owens perceived this, and immediately determined to humor the idea and have some fun out of it.

"Carriazhe! Fat eez ze carriazhe?"
"Why, the coach -horses, wheels-things that go round, round, so! Go 'lang! Crack! Take you to hote!!" said the other, gesticulating all the while, and describing, pantomimically, the motion of a carriage, the driving of the horses, and so on.
"Aha! Ohe! Oui, oui! To ze hote! Tree bien!

Warren street to the Metropolitan Hotel, "there ain't no less than three bridges to cross, and ever so much toll to pay before you get there!"

"What zat you call ze bridzhe, and ze toll, eh?" interrupted John.

"The bridge? Why (gesticulating), high up, so!
Water running under, so! Cross over! Stop! Pay money every time!"

"I tell you what it is, coachee," says the wag, resuming his natural voice, "I'll give you fifty cents!"

The scamp was dumb-founded for a second; but seeing that he was "sold," and that if he rode rusty he would find himself in an awkward fix, putting his hand to his mouth, and whispering confidently to Jack, he said, with a wink that spoke volumes—

"Call it seventy-five cents, and say nothing, you know, about the bridges!" [From the Courrier Des Etats Unis.]

FRENCH GOSSIP.—The Gotha Almanac for 1858, which has just appeared, counts forty-eight Emperors, Kings, Grand Dukes, and reigning princes in Europe, including the Emperor of Bra?il.

The oldest of these sovereigns is the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg Strelitz, born the 12th of August, 1779, and after him the King of Wurtemburg, who was born the 27th of September, 1781.

The Prince whose reign has been the longest is Prince Schaumbourg Lippe; his accession dates from the 13th of February, 1787.

The King of the Belgians, from the 16th of December, 1790, eccupies the sixth rank; the King of Prussia born Sept. 16th, 1837, and the Duke of Parma July 9th, 1848.

The Ladles' Dresses.—In the feminine world the great subject of conversation is the remark of the Empress to Augustine Brohan, one of the arbiters of the good taste at the theater and the city, that "probably dresses would be without flounces this winter." In fact the new dresses of her gracious majesty are widowed of these external ornaments. But the crinoline preserves its clandestine empire at the court as well as the city. We cannot therefore say entirely with Moliere:

"We live under a prince, the enemy of fraud."

"We live under a prince, the enemy of frau-

THE DISCOVERY CF GOLD IN CALIFORNIA .- The discovery of gold in California, though it has enriched the nation, has been attended with disaster to the discoverers. Capt. Sutter, in whose mill flume the first gold was found which gave rise to the California fever and peopled that region, has been entirely ruined by the turn that events have since taken. ly ruined by the turn that events have since taken. In an account which he gives of the effect upon himself, he says it broke up his labors, stopped his tannery, left his mills deserted, and from the prospect of being the richest man on the Pacific, he is now hopelessly ruined. Marshall, the man who made the discovery, is hardly any better off. At this very moment, robbed of every dollar and every foot he possessed, he would not have, but for the daily charity of comparative strangers, even a cabin in which to lay his head at night. Sutter says that it was in a conversation with Marshall that Hargraves, the discoverer of gold in Australia, first obtained the idea of seeking for the precious metal in that country. Mr. Hargraves, for his discovery, received from the British Government the sum of £5,000 ($25,000), and from the Australian government $10,000 ($50,000)—making $75,000.

DENJAMIN FRANKLIN'S GALLANTRY.—The fol-lowing is a copy of a note by Benjamin Franklin, the original of which, in French, (bad French, Lola Montez says) is still preserved in a library at Paris:

"Mr. Franklin never forget any party at which Madame Helvetius is to be. He believes even that, if he was engaged to go to Paradi e this morning, he would make supplication to be permited to remain upon earth until half past one, to receive the embrace which she has been so good as to promise upon meeting him at Monsieur Turgot's."

This ought not to be anything remarkable in France. The "charming Lady Montague" relates that she wished to write a note to a French lady, while she was in Paris, expressing her regret that she could not see her. The form of expression used was, "I deeply regret that I cannot see you." On showing the note to the Parisian waiter, Lady Montague says he shook his head, with, "Ah! mi ladi, you should say I am in despate that I cannot see you"—to which form the note was immediately altered.

intellect, and that, low as it is, it has never been cultivated. He is an ignorant, low-bred, superstitious man, with just such a mind as would feast upon the supernatural. Witcheraft was taught him by his mother's lips, and from his earliest child-hood it has haunted and tormented him. He suspected his best friends of being leagued with the evil powers, and he transformed every dog and cat into an infernal messenger, dispatched by the evil one to torment him.

The testimony, in our opinion, fully confirms this, and at once removes from the memory of his victims the suspicions of illicit connection which his assertions have cast upon them.

Whether his belief in witchcraft so deranges his mind as to make him irresponsible to the law, is the question to be decided. On other matters he has been as rational as the ordinary run of people of his educational advancement, and when it was out of his head he conversed reasonably enough.

IMPORTANT FROM THE PLAINS.—We have late intelligence from the troops en route for Salt Lake City. Col. Hoffman arrived at Fort Leavenworth on Tuesday, bringing dispatches from the Utah expedition. Col. Johnson's command was at the South Pass, and all the stores, amounting to six months' provisions, were under a strong escort.

The Colonel did not doubt his ability to enter Salt Lake valley before the setting in of winter.

This intelligence is of a gratifying nature, inacmuch as it was greatly feared by many, that owing to his insignificant numbers, Col. Johnson h. d be en cut off by the Indians. We presume that other bodies of troops will be promptly forwarded in the spring to second the Colonel, or else that he and his sommand will be recalled. There is a vast deal of humbug about these warlike demonstrations against the Mormons. They are made for political effect, and are about all the capital laft ye sham Democrary.—Leavenworth Times, Nov. 28th.

By Special Appointment to the Principal Sovereigns of Europe.

and Anatomical Professor of the Patholog the Human foot. COPIES OF TESTIMONIALS.

[From Captain T. R. Smyle, St. Louis, Mo.] I have been most successfully treated for corns by Dr. Ealing, he having in the most easy and painless manner extracted them to my entire satisfaction, and it is with pleasure that I recommend him to others.

T. R. SMYLIE, St. Louis. LOUISVILLE, KY., Dec. 2, 1857.

From Capt. J. H. Schroeder, Louisville, Ky.] I, the undersigned, take pleasure in stating that Dr. Ealing removed without pain, and as if it were by a charm, a very troublesome corn off the foot of my little daughter, and therefore recommend other parents to follow my example.

J. H. SCHROEDER, 28 Wall st. LOUISVILLE, KY., Dec. 2, 1857.

[From Capt. J. T. Allen, New Albany, Ind.] Dr. Ealing removed from my feet some very bad corns, in the most easy and delicate manner, without giving me any pain. Those only who have been afflicted like myself with corns, can fully appreciate such valuable services. I sincerely recommend him to all sufferers frrm corns as an able chiropodist.

JAMES T. ALLEN. Louisville, Dec. 8, 1857.

From C. Duvall, Esq., Louisville, Ky. Dr. Ealing has shown much talent and skill in extracting corns from my feet without the smallest amount of pain. I take pleasure in recommending him as a medical gentleman of eminence and thorough acquaintance with his profession. I was very greatly relieved by C. DUVALL, 557 Main st. LOUISVILLE, Nov. 30, 1857.

From Judge Read, Jeffersonv:lle, Ind.] Having suffered severely from corns, I have great pleasure in certifying that Dr. Ealing removed them easily and without pain; and I can confidently recommend him as a most skillful operator on corns, as I have never met his equal. J. G. READ. Louisville, Ky., Nov. 26, 1857.

[From Simon Bottorff, Esq., Jeffersonville, Ind.] Dr. Ealing removed from my feet several corns in the most successful manner and to my entire satisfaction. It is impossible to over-rate his skill, and I do recommend him to all sufferers from corns as a most careful and easy operator, without subjecting his patient to the slightest pain.

SIMON BOTTORFF. LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 27, 1857.

DR. EALING, Surgeon Chiropodist, by especial appointment, to His Imperial Majesty, Napoleon III, Emperor of France, and her Imperial Majesty, the Empress Eugenie, wishes to impress on the mind of the Public, that his System is at once novel, and based upon long experience; that, having by careful study and actual practice rendered himself master of that branch of surgical art, in which he has been so long engaged, as well as made most important discoveries in the treatment of the Diseases of the FEET, he is enabled to give relief in cases of the worst kind, and without pain, or producing any bad effect whatever, to eradicate the most painful Corns or Bunnions, without cutting. The most timid may fearlessly rely upon his skill; and children, however young, as well as

Dr. King's Dispensary. D.R. A. KING, a practitioner of New York for thirty years, and for the last four in this city, has removed his Dispensary to next door to Walker's Exchange. Third street, Louisville, for the treatment of Private Diseases, such as Gonorthea, Syphilis, and all diseases of the skin and other derangements growing out of neglect or imperfect cure. His long experience and success enable him to act with confidence. All those who may confide their cases to him may rest assured of having the disease effectually cured and every vestige of the difficulties perfectly eradicated from their constitutions.

Symiotykes of old or recent date effectually cured in a few days by an operation which causes no pain. Where a stricture exists, general derangement of the whole constitution must ensue, a continuance of which will bring on a train of symptoms to be dreaded, and will undermine the constitution and cause premature old age.

Symiotykes and all the consequences growing out of it, brought on, in many cases, by the destructive habits of inconsiderate youth and excessive indulgence of the pascions, which undermine the constitution, rendering the subject unfit for either busines or society, and causing premature old age.

This is a purely vegetable compound, prepared onstrictly scientiff principles, after the manner of the celebrated Holland Pr. fessor, Boerhave. Because of its great success in most of the European States, its introduction into the United States was intended more especially for those of our fatherland scattered here and there over the face of this mighty country. Meeting with great success among them, I now offer it to the American public, knowing that its truly wonderful medicinal virtues must be acknowledged.

PAILADELPHIA, Dec. 9. The Postmaster General's report, in alluding to delays and failures on the great mail route from New Orleans to New York, recommends as a remedy the closing of a contract with the Florida Railroad Company, the mails to be conveyed from New Orleans to New York by sea in five days. This arrangement, the Postmaster thinks, will obviate not only the delays attending land carriage but also prevent robberies and losses. The company offer to perform daily service for $456,250 per year. Providing for the purchase of two Steam Fire Engines.

SEC. 1. Be it ordained by the General Council of the City of Louisville, That the Mayor be and he is hereby directed to contract with A. B. Latta of Cincinnati for two Steam Fire Engines, together with hose-carriage and coal-carts necessary therefor.

Said engines to be constructed after the plan of the "Eclipse," built by said Latta, and now the property of the city of Louisville; in power and dimensions to be the same, and in every respect as to material, workmanship, beauty, and strength of machinery to be equal to said Eclipse; provided, if any improvements can be made therein, it is so ordered. The contract to be submitted to the General Council, subject to their approval.

Sec. 2. The engines herein proposed to be contracted for shall not be received as the property of the city until they shall have been examined by a competent machinist selected by the General Council for that purpose. Said engines to be delivered in Louisville without charge for freight or insurance.

Sec. 3. If, after examination by the machinist, he reports in writing to the General Council that the engines are worthy of reception, then the Mayor shall issue and deliver to said A. B. Latta the note of the city bearing date on the day the engines are received, and payable at four months after date

"Pantascopic Glasses," what are they?

"THE most correct glasses ever brought before the public" should have a name. There is much in a name. A fancy name may be given to a peculiar form of Spectacle frames to give them notoriety, but not deservedly to the glasses contained unless their quality be superior to others before the public.

If in fitting our customers with Pebbles or Glasses of whatever form or variety it is found that we have not furnished an article equal in quality at much less expense to the purchaser than in those of Pantasopic or Solomon notoriety we will refund the price paid and pay the customer for the trouble of fair investigation if demanded.

Fourth Volume of Debates of Congress THE ABRIDGEMET OF THE DEBATES OF CON-GRESS, or the Political History of the United States, from the original Documents. Edited by Col. Thomas H. Benton. In 15 large octavo volumes of about 750 two-col-umn pages.

from the original Documents. Edited by Col. Thomas H. Benton. In 15 large octavo volumes of about 750 two-column pages.

This work has now reached the fourth volume, and is giving great satisfaction among all classes. It will contain the wi-dom of Congress for sevenity years, and will be an tional interest, and one of the most valuable compendiums for public and private libraries ever issued. The work realizes a desideratum long felt, and of all others, for the political history of the Government, most wanted. Its wide range of characters, each one speaking for himself and representing his own party, and its far stretch of time, make it of the greatest value to the nation. The indexing is very complete, so that any name or subject desired may be found in either volume at once.

Terms.—The work is publishing exclusively by subscription, and the volumes are issued at intervals of from 2 to 3 months. In cloth binding at $25; law sheep $3.50; half morocco $4; half calf extra $4.50; each volume payable as delivered.
